Some of the Winners of the First Carmel Kite Festival Are on the Honor Roll of the Armed Forces Now

By Irene Alexander

With the thirteenth annual Kite Festival scheduled for Saturday afternoon, March 25, Carmel children between the ages of five and ninety-five are taking brief holiday from an all-too-sober world of wars and income taxes and catching anew the spirit of one of our happiest and most warmly cherished traditions.

It was the late Willis G. White who fathered the idea of a kite tournament here, and made all the arrangements for its inauguration on the sunny afternoon of February 21, 1931. They were comprehensive arrangements, too, with Mayor Herbert Heron on hand to give out the coveted prizes, with a Parade Committee headed by Eugene Watson, a Committee on Literature, a Site Committee headed by L. S. Slevin, three Technical Advisors in the persons of Ernest Calley, Stuart O'Brien and Fred O. Robbins, and a representative board of judges composed of John Catlin, Frederick Rummell, Ray De Yoe, George Seideneck, Rev. Austin B. Chinn, Miss Ruth Huntington, Miss Hazel Watrous and Mrs. Daniel Willard. The event was a huge success. The parade, hundreds strong, assembled at Sunset school and led by Grand Marshal Gus Englund on his black horse, with aide de camp Louis Levinson and Mayor Heron, marched to Hatton Fields where the participants spread out their handiwork for a preliminary inspection to determine what contraband help, if any, had been rendered by over-zealous papas and mamas.

Presently the windy air of the mesa was filled with floating swooping, darting kites of every hue and size. The rooting section which included the staid city council and the dignified school trustees, craned its collective neck and uttered shrill cries of ecstacy. The judges adjusted their spectacles and singled out the winners. To Ted Marble went the first prize for the highest flying kite, with Harry and Bill Turner and Joe De Amaral tying for second place and Don Staniford, Herschel Haines and Denny Cooper sharing third. Charlotte and Jean May had produced the most attractive entry, with Barry Flanders and Dick Tevis winning second and third prizes. Gerald Ray's kite was voted the most unusual and Barry Flanders' next in line while first prize for the best all-round entry went to Kevin Wallace and the second award to Arline Plein.

So delightful a memory did this event leave in the minds of the local citizenry that when its first anniversary rolled around no less than 250 youngsters appeared with their entries and an estimated three thousand spectators gathered from all parts of the Peninsula. The year 1932 marked also the addition of a new feature to the parade, henceforth to be a significant part of the Kite Festival tradition until in 1941 the site of the contest was shifted from Hatton Field to the Carmel high school athletic grounds. Always, in the intervening years, the parade, forming at Sunset school, augmented in time by such dazzling new civic acquisitions as the fire department salvage truck and the Red Cross Ambulance and of-

Vivid Effect of Colorful New Oil Exhibition at Carmel Art Gallery Is Enhanced by Skillful Hanging

By Patricia Cunningham

This week the Carmel Art Association opens the door of its gallery on two new exhibits. The water colors of Martin Gambee and the regular bi-monthly oil show of the artist members of the association. And once again the citizens of this community surely must feel a glow of pride that their village can so efficiently maintain its world wide reputation as an art center. We all know that it is a unique situation for a place of this size to offer professional exhibitions by distinguished painters in a superb gallery, but it is well to remind ourselves of the fact every now and then because it is risky to take good things for granted.

When the observer enters the oil gallery his sensation will immediately be one of plea re and delight because, in color, this show is unusually brilliant. Myron Oliver and his hanging committee have taken advantage of this circumstance. They have hung the paintings so as to bring out the ultimate sparkle in each and weave a pattern of color vibrations by harmonious juxtaposition of one with another. Since half of the pleasure experienced from looking at a painting is direct physical reaction divorced from the idea involved, the importance of the placing cannot be over-estimated.

So after his first delight in the vibrations of light and color from the show as a whole, the visitor can extend his enjoyment by looking at each painting individually. Many of the them depict characteristic scenes of this locale. Armin Hansen, Jaffrey Harris,

Cherry Pie for The City Council

Like the nice man who gave the little girl the cherry pie: "Eat all you want, my dear, it has arsenic in it," the president of the school board has offered the city its long-coveted ravine to dump brush in, asking in exchange only that the city surrender its inalienable right to fire one of its own employees.

For many long months the city has ardently desired a place within reasonable hauling distance to dump brush, tree trimmings and street sweepings. After several wild goose chases that resulted in heart breaking disappointment, the city began to cast longing glances at the school board's ravine behind the high school athletic field and track. Tentative advances were made to the school board. Conferences pregnant with importance were held between the mayor and the president of the board. Followed days and nights of high diplomatic negotiation during which those "in the know" all but cracked under the strain. Would the mayor—God bless him—prevail?

Tuesday night at the school board meeting came the big de-

Frank Moore Panels To Hang in Marine Corps Headquarters

A group of panels painted by Frank Moore, dealing with the action of the U. S. Marines in the American Occupation of California in 1846-47, are to be shipped to San Francisco early next week to be hung permanently in the U. S. Marine Corps Headquarters office.

The work was requested when Major General John Marston, Commanding Officer of the Department of the Pacific became interested in the subject on finding in the Marine Library material on the part played by the U. S. Marines in the Mexican-California war.

The only known pictorial record of that period was made by Gunner Meyers of the Marine Corps who took part in a number of battles in California and made water color sketches of them, apparently during intervals between actions. The original water colors are in possession of President Roosevelt but they have been reproduced by Random House and Mr. Moore was given permission to use the plates. From these reproductions, from other old prints and lithographs, and from visits to the locale where the actions took place, Mr. Moore has been able to reconstruct the scenes.

Two of the panels deal with local scenes, the Hoisting of the Flag in Monterey, and U. S. Squadron at Anchor in Monterey Bay. Other subjects are: Sloop-of-War "Dale" in Pacific Waters, The American Encampment on the San Gabriel Battle-Ground, Battle of the Plains of La Mesa near Los Angeles, View Map of San Francisco in 1846-47; Hoisting the Flag in Yerba Buena, and The Battle of Santa Clara.

Charges Against P.D. To Be Aired At Public Meeting

The police department which has been in bad odor since Mrs. Fred Horne complained to the city council last week that Officer Ed Jelich mauled her around violently when she refused to sign a traffic citation and that Chief of Police Roy Fraties mistreated her when she was brought into the police office will have an airing through a report by Police Commissioner Bernard Rowntree at a special meeting of the city council to be held shortly, probably next Wednesday. The meeting will be open to the press and the public.

Rowntree on the request of Mayor P. A. McCreery, has been investigating the complaint this week and as soon as he has his written report ready for presentation, a special meeting of the council will be called, so that the matter can be dealt with as soon as possible rather than hang fire until the regular meeting next month, the Mayor said yesterday.

Meanwhile, Chief of Police Roy Fraties, who is accused of sitting Mrs. Horn down hard in one of the unpadded chairs of the police office, and Jelich have been up on the carpet not only to answer Rowntree's questions, but those of Deputy District Attorney Charles McHarry who was brought into the affair when Fred Horne, on behalf of his wife, asked that the District Attorney bring action against the two police officers. McHarry has also heard Mrs. Horne's story, and got the testimony of an army officer and a high school student who, among others, witnessed the struggle that took place on the street when Jelich arrested Mrs. Horne Wednesday of last

Judges Named for Kite Festival on Saturday, Mar. 25

Kite making is in full swing for the Thirteenth Annual Kite Festival set for Saturday afternoon, March 25 at the high school athletic field. Prize money has been contributed by the Lions club, student committees have been named and the judges selected.

The parade, headed by the red salvage truck, polished up to the nth degree as always for these occasions, will start from Sunset school at 1:15 with the city trucks on hand to give a hitch to the contestants with their kites, and the parents and well-wishers stringing along behind in their cars.

Kites will be judged in the following classifications, and all winners must be airworthy by trial: Best made, judged by Hugh Comstock, Rev. C. J. Hulsewe, Eayle H. Grigg; prettiest, Mrs. Laidlaw Williams and Patricia Cunningham; funniest, A. C. LaFrenz and Miss Katie Martin; highest flying, Officer Frank Hay and Lloyd Weer and 200 feet class, Clayton Neill and Mayor P. A. McCreery.

Eighth grade and high school committee is made up of Shirley Sousa, Peggy Riker, Sheila Whitaker, Sunny Cook, Betty Dougherty, Pat Casey, Roland Vanden Berg, Ben Viljoen and Bob DeAmaral.

A.W.V.S. to Handle CD Information Bureau

With the opening of their new offices in the Pine Inn, the Carmel A.W.V.S. will assume responsibility for "War Services" activities for the Civilian Defense organization in Carmel.

Civilian Defense has maintained an information service office in the City Hall, primarily for rationing, salvage, etc., under the able direction of Mrs. C. F. Haskell. Mrs. Haskell and Mrs. Carmalita Benson, head of Carmel A.W.V.S., have agreed that this service can be maintained just as efficiently by the A.W.V.S. office, with the result of a saving of some $350.00 per year to Carmel

GOING UP!

The Red Cross thermometer at the parkway at Ocean and San Carlos has hit $23,000, and is rising so fast it may blow its top any day or hour as the quota is $25,000 and Carmel, as usual is giving and giving gladly.

Mrs. Moller Will Run for 2nd Term On School Board

Mrs. Martha Moller, whose term as school trustee expires this spring will be a candidate for election to a second term on the board at the election to be held May 19 at the library in Sunset school.

The announcement came at the school board meeting Tuesday night when the members appointed H. L. Clement, Mrs. Eva Kelsey and Mrs. Florinda Holm to act on the election board.

Nominations for election to the board of trustees will close on April 19. Any person desiring to serve as school trustee should file a written statement of candidacy with the County Superintendent of schools or, any parent of a child attending the schools may propose to the County Superintendent, in writing, a candidate. There is no circulation of nomination papers as in city elections.

Mrs. Moller, who was appointed to the board to fill a vacancy, is the only member whose term expires this year. Hugh Comstock's term expires in 1945, Mrs. Anita W. Dormody's in 1946, Peter Ferranti's and Harold Nielsen's in 1947.

So far no candidates have offered to run against Mrs. Moller in the May election.

ten as much as six blocks in length, would file past Mission San Carlos de Borromeo and pause there for two minutes in tribute to the memory of Father Junipero Serra.

In 1940, when illness made impossible the further attendance at the festival of its kindly founder, the custom was inaugurated of continuing the line of march past the Willis G. White home on Camino Real and Ninth, and the annual event was dedicated to him. With the passing of time, the mantle of Parade Marshal fell in turn upon the shoulders of the late Fire Chief Charles Guth and is now worn proudly by Chief of Police Roy Fraties. For some reason a most interesting and exciting feature of the festival, inaugurated in 1933, was allowed to lapse after five years, and in the opinion of this kite historian, should be revived: the Filipino kite-fight event, an exhibition of rare grace and skill in manipulation. Those who witnessed contests between the elaborate fliers made by Leopoldo Yeban, and Rio Reloque, who saw the great black hawk of Idel Machile defeat the beautiful U. S. Navy kite of Leonie Anzala, and watched entranced the tricks performed by Pedro Ilicito during which he sent intricate messages up the long cord to a pair of stars and a pair of butterfly wings, which responded to his orders by folding up and sliding back to him, would welcome the return of this aerial show.

Twice in the history of the festival it has been expedient to substitute ribbons for the prizes donated generously by the city's merchants and public-spirited citizens, without dampening the zeal of the contestants, and few events have inspired the cooperation of a more representative group of inhabitants. The long roster of patrons and judges reads like a Carmel Who's Who. Here one finds among others the names of Perry Newberry, Jimmie Hopper, Charles Van Riper, Jo Mora, Frank Sheridan, George Seideneck, Hazel Watrous, Armin Hansen, Winsor Josselyn, Paul Whitman, Hugh Comstock, Clara Kellogg, Father Michael O'Connell, John Catlin, Bernard Rowntree, Rev. C. J. Hulsewe, Senator Ed Tickle, the late Otto Bardarson, and as an enthusiastic moving spirit throughout the years of the festival observance, that of Ernest Calley, this year's major domo.

Foremost among prize-winners is Ernest Calley's young son, Douglas Calley, with no less than ten awards to his credit since he entered in the kindergarten group ten years ago. His closest competitors are Gordon Miyamoto, with eight prizes won, Adaline Guth, Baird Bardarson and Edgar Hoffman. That an enthusiasm for the making and flying of kites is contagious has been amply demonstrated by the De Amaral family, with its four prize-winning entrants, Joe, La Verne, George and Frank and scores of other Carmel families whose members have carried on the tradition from year to year.

Among the hundreds of kites which have flown over Hatton Field and more recently over the Bardarson Memorial Field at Carmel high school, there are those which stand out in memory for their beauty and the ingenuity of their makers. They vary from the kite flown by Ernestine Renzel at the second annual festival—barely two inches in diameter, with a postage stamp for a tail, to Ronald Dorsett's Flying Professor, which looked rather like a mammoth aerial beetle. One remembers too, Allan Wood's lovely, cellophane flier, spangled with stars, flown long ago when he was in Sunset's sixth grade, Edgar Leslie's wonderful black and gold Mickey Mouse, Adaline Guth's big white cat, Gordon Miyamota's clockface, set at two, and Ben Stilwell's glittering Chinese centipede.

GUESTS FROM BAY REGION

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ewig entertained as house guests over the past weekend in their home at San Antonio and 14th street Miss Virginia Crichton of Piedmont, fiance of their son, Gordon Ewig, her sister, Miss Ann Crichton and Miss Connie Connolly of San Francisco. Gordon Ewig, U.S.N.R., will shortly complete his three months' V-7 course at Columbia University.

OPA Executive To Give Talk On Rent Control

On next Tuesday evening, March 21, at Sunset school auditorium at 8 o'clock, Henry A. Cross, District Rent Executive, OPA will speak on Rent Control. He will discuss this topic from every angle, and at the conclusion of his address will answer questions. Questions, however, must be in writing, and may be left at the door before the lecture.

This meeting will be open to everybody, and there will be no admission charge or registration necessary.

Ezio Pinza, Met. Basso, to Appear Here in Concert

Ezio Pinza, basso of the Metropolitan Opera Company, whose stalwart bearing and picturesque stage presence so often have stolen the spotlight from the tenors there, will be heard here in recital at 2:15, Sunday afternoon, March 26th, at Sunset school auditorium. With a voice as warm and flexible as a tenor's yet deeper and richer than a baritone's, this great basso has awakened the artistic world to a new realization of the possibilities latent in basso singing and he has brought it to a degree of popularity it has seldom enjoyed in the past.

Pinza revealed his musical talents at an early age, but the ambition of his parents was to have him become a civil engineer. To this end, he was sent to school. in Ravenna, but finally gaining his own point, he went to Bologna and studied at the conservatory there with Vizzani. He made his first important operatic appearance in "Tristan" at the Teatro Realle dell 'Opera in Rome, where he remained for two years. After a short period of opera in Turin, he went to La Scala where he sang for three years under the direction of Arturo Toscanini.

Here, Guilo Gatti-Casazza heard him and persuaded him to come to the United States. He made his Metropolitan Opera debut in 1926 in a revival of Spontini's "La Vestale" and received a tremendous ovation.

In addition to the Metropolitan, Pinza has also appeared with the Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Montreal Opera Companies.

Ezio Pinza, basso, whose concert under the auspices of the Carmel Music Society, starts at 2:15 o'clock, Sunday March 26 at Sunset Auditorium

The program he will present to the Carmel audience:

Aria, Cara Sposo, from "Rinaldo," Handel; Aria, Si Tra I Ceppi, from "Berenice," Handel; Aria, Dormi, Amore, from "La Flora," Da Gagliano; Il Maritino (Folksong), and Novara La Bella (Folksong), arranged by Sinigaglia.

Trois jours de vendange, Hahn; L'Heureux vagabond, Bruneau; Plaisir d'amour, Martini; Au Pays, Holmes.

Lament of Ian the Proud, Charles Griffes; Winter, Edward Harris; To One Unknown, John Alden Carpenter; Do You Remember, Mischa Levitzki; Cato's Advice (XVIII Century Drinking Song), Bruno Huhn.

I Due Tarli, Riccardo Zandonai; La Serenata, Tosti; Non Ho Parole, Sibella; Aria, Il Lacerato Spirito, from "Simon Boccanegra," Verdi.

Gibner King is his accompanist.

School May Get Damages for 55 Broken Windows

Superintendent J. W. Getsinger was authorized at the School Board meeting Tuesday night to represent the school district in recovering damages for the destruction of 55 plate glass windows in the administration building of the high school by three intoxicated Salinas boys.

Juvenile authorities in Salinas, who have the boys in custody but are withholding their names because they are minors, revealed that there were five in the invading party. Three were let out at the high school while the other two drove down into town where they maintain that they remained during the destructive activities of their companions at the high school. When they learned that their friends were in trouble, they returned in their car to Salinas and were not picked up until later.

One of the vandals was caught in the act of throwing a flower pot through the windows by two Carmel boys, David Ferguson, eighth grade and Thomas Machado, seventh grade, who heard the crash of breaking glass and came to investigate. They enlisted the assistance of Jim Heisinger and Robert Weer, high school basketball team members, who were playing tennis on the school courts. The older boys tackled the Salinas youth while the younger boys phoned police who took the vandal into custody. His two companions were found lying in the grass in an extremely intoxicated condition.

As the windows are not insured costs of repairs, between $300 and $500, if not recovered from the parents of the offenders will have to be paid by the school district.

It was pointed out at the board meeting that the generosity of the school in leaving the athletic facilities open to students outside school hours made possible the arrest of the vandals since otherwise the Carmel boys would not have been on the school grounds to discover the activities of the vandals. The board moved that a vote of thanks be extended to the Carmel boys.

Boy Sustains Head Injuries When Struck By Car on Highway

An eleven-year-old boy, James Steffen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Steffen, Monterey, is at the Community Hospital under treatment for head injuries sustained Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by a car on the Carmel Hill near the spot where Benjamin Artellan was killed by a hit run driver in December.

The boy stepped from the car of Paul W. Funchess who had given him a hitch from Monterey and was hit by a car driven by Major David J. Louria of Fort Ord.

Lions Club Pays Business Association's Share for Prizes

With the refusal of the Business Association to contribute toward the fund for the purchase of prizes for the Kite Festival, the Carmel Lions Club which had already undertaken to contribute $20, Tuesday night voted another $20 to make up the entire sum the Kite Festival Committee had asked of the two organizations, according to George Knapp, chairman of the Boys and Girls Activities committee.

The reason given by the Business Association for the refusal is that the Association needs all its funds for the maintenance of its information bureau.

Not only are the Lions anxious to see the annual event continued as one of Carmel's pleasantest traditions, but support of the festival is in line with the club's policy of assisting all worth while boys' and girls' activities whenever possible. Through Lions club efforts, leaders have been found for three Scout Cub Packs in the past year.

The club has also offered to cooperate with the P.T.A. in establishing the new 'Teen Age club room.

Four Teachers Resign; Action on Building Fund

The resignation of four teachers was accepted at the School Board meeting Tuesday night, Mrs. Mary McNamara, who stated that she wants to go into business, Mrs. Gale Neel who is going to join her husband in San Francisco, Miss Mary Millard and Jaffrey Harris who want to engage in other activities. The resignations do not become effective until the end of the school term.

Formal action was taken on setting up the lay-away building fund that has been under discussion for several months and was reported in recent issues of the Pine Cone-Cymbal. There was further discussion on the possibility of moving the seventh grade up to the high school making the latter a six year school, also previously reported in this paper. The fund, $12,000 per year for five years, will be raised through a six cent increase in the tax rate which will be liquidated with a one cent favorable margin after two years as payment on Sunset bonds will then be completed.

Superintendent J. W. Getsinger presented a written report of his investigation of the six year school plants which the school board members took home to think over. If they decide to move the seventh grade to the high school the change will not be made until such time as two new classrooms can be built in addition to the new science room and class room required for the high school.

It was reported that Miss Clara Kellogg had recommended that the board consider the possibility of building another elementary school in the Forest Hills school locality. The board was also informed that Mrs. Bernice Frazer had given a large loom to the home making department.

Repair Work Starts On 'Teen Age Club; Students to Help

Mrs. Robert Stanton, Mrs. Howard Monroe and Mrs. J. O. Handley have put in a busy week interviewing electricians, plumbers, carpenters and consulting about insurance. The 'Teen Age club room is a reality. Definitely fixing on the Robert Norton building at Junipero and Ocean as the most suitable place to house the club in its early stages of development, the P.T.A. committee has gone to work to get the building into repair.

Only the essentials will be taken care of by the adults. The students themselves will do interior painting, small jobs of carpentry, and repair and decorate furniture they hope generous Carmel adults will donate out of stored surpluses. Lamps are needed, chairs, sofas.

Though the P.T.A. has undertaken to pay the first several months' rent and to finance the major repairs, the students are busy with money raising projects so as to make the club as nearly self-supporting as possible. Their paper drive is in full swing. Carmel people are asked to bundle and tie their old newspapers and magazines and bring them to the high school if possible, if not, to phone 1343 and leave their name and address so the students can call for the paper with the truck.

An extravanganza is also soon to be given by the students as another fund raising project.

NAVY RADIO TRAINING

It was announced today by Chief D. D. Noggle, recruiter in charge of the local U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, that inductees are now given the opportunity to qualify for a new program in the Navy, radio technician training. This new program is open to all men between the ages of 17 and 50. Inductees are now invited to take the Navy's aptitude test, before their induction to see if they can qualify for this modern radio training. Chief Noggle said. "Anyone with some knowledge of radio and a background of high school mathematics, has an excellent opportunity to pass the test and enter the Navy's Radio Technicians' School."

Anyone interested and who would like complete information on this new program is requested to contact the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, 250 Main street, phone Salinas 5709.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

S.O.S.

Carmel Hi is planning a super duper yearbook, and we need just one more thing to make it perfect. There is going to be a section devoted to former students who are now in the armed forces, but for this section we need pictures of the boys. So, we are asking you, parents, friends, and relatives for help in securing them.

Send your snapshots to the Year Book Editor, Carmel high school. Please PUT your name and address on the back of the picture, that we may return them. We would like to have them, if possible, by Monday March 20.

How about helping us out, folks? Thank you!

—June Quinn

Dancing Group

Some of the mothers of the Carmel Hi students are inaugurating a new dancing group. It is yet in the infant stage, but promises to develop into a very worthwhile activity.

The unique thing about this group is that an excellent instructress has been engaged to get us "hep" to the very latest in dance steps. All of us can stand a little brushing up in our terpsichorean ability, and here is the opportunity of a life time. A small but representative group of mothers met last Friday evening to organize. Very soon membership is to be thrown open to the entire school.

We think we are very fortunate in having mothers who are so interested in our welfare. This is one of the very nicest things to have happen to our students for a long time. —Mary Jane Reel

Army-Navy Exams

The Army-Navy exams which took place last Wednesday in the cafeteria were for Carmel Hi boys of 17 and over who expect to graduate in June. There was no obligation in taking the exam, the boys don't have to accept the offer of training given them if they have passed.

It seems that the reason for this is that the Army-Navy program is to be enlarged and a larger number of young students will be needed to replace the older students recently put into the field services. This opens up an opportunity for college training to the older boys.

The Constitution

At long last the revision of the constitution of the Associated Students has finally been accomplished. The purpose of the revision was to simplify some of the ambiguous regulations and to set up an easily understood and workable document. It has been a tremendous labor of love, this revision of our constitution, and much credit is due those who brought it about.

An election will be held on Friday morning, March 17, to determine whether or not this revised edition is to be adopted.

G.A.A. Basketball Game

Last Friday, March 10th, the Junior and Sophomore girls played two fast games of basketball. However, the Juniors came out on top, with the score 42-19. In this game, as in the others, each class had two teams. Both games were well played but one contest was exceptional and both teams went to town. The next game is the final contest. This is again between the Juniors and Sophmores. The regular full court will be used as both classes will pick their best team for this clash. The eighth grade will play their only game, which is against the Freshmen, in two weeks. This is just a practice game, but this will mark the end of girl's basketball season. Baseball is the next sport which the girls play.

Maria Lorenzini Brings Out New Book of Poems

In Seeding Democracy, by Maria Lorenzini will be found a rich vibrant spirit which makes itself felt despite the medium of words. Rather would music have been the expression suited to such a wealth of flowing emotion. The up-rush of this full life is too great for written language, almost impatient with form. It establishes itself first of all as living and only secondarily as speaking or giving voice.

Many of the poems are about music. To Maria Lorenzini music is a living experience. She listens to it with her whole being. She allows herself to be transmuted by it into a more vividly sensitized creature, seeing new horizons, hearing new anthems, feeling new depths and heights. Whether it is a Beethoven Quartet, a Brahms Symphony or modern music by Bela Bartok or Stravinsky she catches its essence and gives it back in the free sweep of lines. She is not bound by rhyme and rhythm. She breaks forth into her own right of language, bowing to no rules except those of true emotion.

In the little poem from which the book takes its name: Seeding Democracy, will be found the vast survey with which this poet looks on human life with its hopes and fears and struggles. "Receptive Lands hold slumbering seeds," "Hand and heart and earth a boundless whole." She looks upon our coast and says: "Here gods should be sleeping." She listens to "the wind's cello-sweep through the low branches of pine growth" and she feels that America is a land of inherent greatness. She is not dismayed by her struggle with language. She breaks through each obstacle and allows the abundant life and love within her to song with its ow nvoice. —D.H.

Four Carmel Boys Meet in South Pacific

In a recent letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Frederick Smith, Franklyn Rhys Smith, RM2C. U.S. Navy Reserve, told of running into three Carmel boys in the South Pacific. They were Larry Westcott, George De Amaral and Dean Michaels.

Smith writes that all is well except that he is a little tired of the uncomfortable heat and rain. It usually elects to rain about 8 p.m. when they are to have movies on the fantail of his ship, but they sit and get soaked to the skin to see a movie four or five years old because that is about their only recreation. Letters from home are eagerly awaited and all news of Carmel, for in spite of the fact that participation in the war effort has shifted the headquarters of the E. Frederick Smith family to Salinas for the present, Carmel is still home to all of them.

TRAINS AS PILOT

Aviation Cadet James Midkiff, who joined the U. S. Army Air Corps last July and has been stationed at Miami Beach, Florida and at Marietta, Ohio, has just been accepted for pilot training and assigned to San Antonio, Tex., according to word received this week by his mother, Mrs. Smith Midkiff of Ninth and Casanova.

Without Newspapers?

Headline news. War news. Foreign, national, local news. Births, weddings, deaths, politics, the comics. What would we do without newspapers! Most folks take this service for granted. But our strong, free press, serving a free people, would be the first thing dictators would suppress if they had the chance. Everybody here, and in cities and towns throughout America, depends on newspapers for information, inspiration and entertainment. We're all proud of our press and its vital part in American life.

Greyhound and Newspapers Work Together

Greyhound, just like your newspaper, renders an essential service. Like other business firms, Greyhound uses newspapers to contact its customers. In the West alone, regular Pacific Greyhound Lines advertising in more than 500 newspapers keeps people informed about bus travel service. In turn, Greyhound is an important factor in news distribution, carrying many newspapers into areas not served by other forms of public transportation.

Greyhound salutes your newspaper in which this message appears. It is an indispensable part of your daily life. With its help, and that of other newspapers, we are building a transportation service that is playing its part in the development of this city. Greyhound service will grow in valueto the country, to the community and to you.

FROM ENGLAND

Bill Tocher, with the 8th Army Bomber Squadron, writes home some of the thoughts that occur to an American boy bivouacked in England where they have air raids and no sardines. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tocher. His brother, Don, another Carmel lad, is now taking V-12 training at the University of California.

England, 23 February

Dear Folks,

I was reading an article which Dad sent in a recent letter. It spoke of sardines and how welcome a can or two would be to lads overseas. Well, I haven't tasted sardines since I was a civilian. And some of the little devils would taste good. I hope you'll serve them the day after I get home (on the day I want steak).

Dad also sent an article on the feelings of Salinas people toward the Japanese. I was quite touched at first. But it all seemed so insincere when these people spoke of not allowing the Japanese-Americans to return to California. In one breath they say they are deeply hurt by Jap atrocities in Asia. In the next they start treating other people the same way.

So far I've been unable to go to London. I expect to go there about the middle of March. It's been getting a little bombing lately, I've heard. Some of the boys who have been there have been disappointed. The bombings are much more insignificant than they expected. I think the German is on the run toward Berlin and I don't think he will return now.

Say hello to Doc Staniford for me.

Remember me to Mac, (the family dog) and tell him to stay clean.

Yours, Bill.

FROM THE PACIFIC AREA

The seventh of the series "From a Soldier's Letters," excerpts prepared by a Carmel man from his son's letters, appears below. Much water has gone under the bridge since the first of the series, in which the recruit, sweating through basic training, rejoiced in getting the feel of his new rifle.

Your letters to me, the air mail paper, razor blades and several other things of value to me were lost in the heat of battle, just part of the price of war but a very small part. I am in a Navy hospital, but censorship does not permit us to state where we are or to mention any illnesses we have . . . I seem to be holding my own and some day I expect to get out of here, but from the looks of things that day is definitely not too soon. The care is good and I really don't mind the chance to rest.

I am still in the hospital, but feeling somewhat better. It's a good bet, two to one, that I'll be leaving here within 33 days or sooner. As to where I go from here, you may make your guess, place your bets. As of this date I am quoting the following odds, subject to change without notice. New Zealand, even money: Hawaii, 2 to 1; the States, 3 to 1.

Last minute dope. You can expect a dry spell starting any time within the next two weeks. Now is the time to cross your fingers and pray. This is the news from here.

Again I am reporting from a U. S. Naval hospital somewhere in the Southwest Pacific. My health remains for the most part about the same. Of course that is entirely the opinion of the patient and in no way reflects the views of the medical officer. The following, however, may help to ease your mind a trifle—I am up part of the time, rarely miss a movie, and smoke incessantly. The time for evacuation from here draws near, but as yet I dare not hazard a guess as to the date. Even though I knew the destination of the ship I would not attempt to give the information out. The record to date: Fourteen months overseas; 9 months in combat zone; 2 major campaigns and action on three different islands; hundreds of air-raids; and never a day off; total of three months in Army and Navy hospitals . . . "I have a pain in my abdomen" said a private to the Army doctor. "Young man," said the medico, "officers have abdomens, sergeants have stomachs; you have a bellyache."

POETRY

PRAYER

Thou who are addressed in myriad Names,
Who visits us infinitely,
Whom we receive according to our measure,
I pray to Thee.
Let me not sit by the mind's passage,
Oblivious to all else, stringently waiting.
I would range freely through my whole dwelling,
Release each bolt and shutter,
Open wide each window;
And that which is given me to receive,
Let me not only recognize and greet gladly,
But let me welcome in,—throughly.
That which is revealed, let me contemplate
With more than my eyes,
Acquaint me, not only in thought and feeling,
But throughout the flowing wholeness of my being.

—MAUD OAKES VOLANDRI

HERE IT IS WRITTEN

This is no careless thing
Scribbled in sand by one-day sweethearts
Beneath an indolent sun,
And swept by ruthless tides
Into oblivion.

This is the seared and jagged depth
Of characters upon the cliff
That spurns the railing sea—
Rejects the green monotony of tides.

Here is where the lightning struck—
Once, but forever,
Breaking her golden teeth
Against these granite sides.
Here it is written
How our love abides.

—FRANCES CRAWFORD ORR

STEP-CHILD

I, who was nurtured in a northern land,
Daughter of wooded hills,
Of green meadows,
Child of New England,
I, who remember
The lavender wakening of first violets in spring,
The hot fields of white daisies in the June sunshine,
The red-gold pageantry of leaves on autumn country roads,
The crystal glory of ice upon bare branches—

I stand on the shores of another ocean
And dip my fingers in cool blue drops of lupine.
I walk other roads
And smell the sweet dry odor of chaparral,
And let my eyes climb with the yuccas
Up tall purple mountains.
On the desert at night,
When the moon tips all the cactus needles with silver,
I feel the warm wonder of the desert wind quickening my senses;
And I say to the white, lucent stars:
"This is my home!"

REVIEWS

FROM CAMP

Technical Sergeant William Irwin, the Pine Cone-Cymbal's foreign correspondent, whose reporting back home to date has been from camps in Arizona and Colorado, now writes from Geiger Field in the state of Washington.

All is sunshine and new spring joy in the northeast corner of the state of Washington. Flowers are out and the birds are singing, belying the glowering sky and flurries of sticky snow outside my window. My heart is full of joy and I bound around on my little fat legs for Queenie is back in my life, if only for a fleeting moment.

Surely you remember Queenie whose army activities I reported last year. Queenie who joined the army engineers on a Fresno bivouac a year and a half ago. Queenie who upset the machine-like routine of the B Company orderly room when she presented the outfit with their first cadre of pups. A slender little black terrier, she had a heart twice her size. From Fresno, she rode with us in a star-studded palace to an Arizona camp to rear her first family in the rough and ready tradition of the Corps of Engineers. It was there that she sent her family off with her old outfit and stayed to make history with a new battalion. She became so much a part of the army that she couldn't stand the sight of a civilian. I'm afraid she'll be a real problem for post war readjustment agencies.

Queenie loved hikes and bivouacs. She not only kept up with the long grueling marches on those hot desert days, but spent the night flirting with coyotes. It was an old coyote who taught her to dig a cave in the desert wherein to deposit her second cadre of pups. In my old fashioned way I regretted to see Queenie change from a dainty little country girl to a full-blown army floozie, a wolfess with power in army dogdom. Yes, Queenie was becoming worldly and a character, but she was Queenie just the same.

The outfit moved to Colorado for the winter and Queenie brought the dog platoon through without a dog gone. Tragedy struck fully for the first time when Queenie, a warm blooded babe from a hot climate, was bewildered by snow and gave birth to her latest cadre in a small blizzard. All but one froze to death in spite of her pathetic efforts to warm their stiff bodies back to life again.

Queenie, the veteran top kick, followed her engineers to the great Northwest and she has just been bailed out of jail. She was only a few hours on this base before she took over and spread the word around that she was on deck, from now on things were going to be different, strictly K9GI. In a day the whole canine contingent knew she had arrived and were paying court to the greatest morale builder of army dogdom, the pin up gal of the kennels, the talk of the fire hydrants.

Perhaps it was that the Chaplain was hazy on the line between morale and morals, perhaps the base medic had impressed his own self with the hygiene lecture or perhaps it was the jealous treachery of the little spaniel at the Service Club. Whatever the reason, Queenie was locked up in the guard house . . . Queenie in the Klink, an unthinkable turn of events.

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, March 19, on the subject "Matter." The Golden Text will be: "Turn ye not unto idols, nor make to yourselves molten gods: I am the Lord your God," (Lev. 19:4).

Bible selections will include the following passages from Matthew 7: 18, 20: "A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit. . . . Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "Jesus' parables explain Life as never mingling with sin and death. He laid the axe of Science at the root of material knowledge, that it might be ready to cut down the false doctrine of pantheism, — that God, or Life, is in or of matter," (p. 27).

When the word spread it wasn't long before the indignant engineers had bailed her out, but who would sign for her and vouch for her behavior? That, dear readers, is where I stuck my neck out. Queenie was very grateful and licked my hands and cuddled against me, she promised to be ever so good . . . but even as I write this, the door was opened by an unsuspecting soldier and Queenie slipped out on a dead run. Unfinished business, I guess.

Queenie is a hussy, but a lovable hussy, almost Mehitabelistic—in an army sort of way. I used to abstractly disapprove of her Victory girl life, but now she is off again with my name officially certifying to her good and stable character.

PROTECTION FOR STATE GUARD

Members of the California State Guard who are injured in line of duty, are entitled to compensation as state employees under the California Workmen's Compensation laws, Attorney General Robert W. Kenny today stated in an opinion.

His ruling was directed to Brigadier General Ray W. Hays as Adjutant General of California.

The inquiry to Kenny followed an injury to an officer in the Guard who had suffered a leg fracture while supervising instruction in commando tactics.

DR. BRANDT AT MONTEREY FORUM

Dr. Karl Brandt, economist, writer, lecturer and authority on food, will speak in Monterey. Monday, March 27 at the Walter Colton school auditorium at eight o'clock under the auspices of the Monterey Adult School. His talk will be entitled "Will Food Win the War?"

Dr. Brandt was born in Germany and studied at the State College for Agriculture at Wurttemberg. One of his many assignments was to organize Germany's first Institute of Agricultural and Market Research. This assignbrought Dr. Brandt to the United States where he traveled extensively studying our progress in market research.

"You're giving to me when you give to the Red Cross!"

ELEVEN million men in the services —but one alone whose name you never forget—one alone for whom you would do anything, give anything.

Through every dreary day you are buoyed up by thoughts of him. The long lonely nights are a little less lonely when you can read his letters, see his picture upon your bedside table.

And yet there is so little you can do for him. If only you could be sure of helping him when he needs you most.

But you can be sure. For you give to him when you give through your Red Cross.

Wherever he may be stationed . . . in camp or abroad, in desert, in jungle or icy waste, the Red Cross is at his side. Your Red Cross is there with "coffee and" when he finishes a long exhausting march.

Your Red Cross is there when he is lonely and lost in some strange city on leave.

Your Red Cross provides hostels, canteens, "a bed with clean sheets," cheer, comfort and companionship for him no matter where he may be.

Well or wounded, your Red Cross is at his side. The blood you gave goes to him, thanks to your Red Cross. His convalescence is made easy with books and games and gifts from a Red Cross worker.

GIVE TO THE RED CROSS

If he is a prisoner of war, your Red Cross will, to the utmost of its power, get your letters in to him, get his letters out to you, and straight from your heart, the Red Cross will send him real American food, cigarettes and tobacco.

Wherever he is—wherever he may go—he will never be out of your reach. For you give to him when you give through the Red Cross.

Of course, you have given before. Of course, you will give again.

But this year when the need is greater than ever . . . when it's your own men we serve . . . This year dig deeper than you have ever dug before and be glad that you can. For wherever he is

The RED CROSS is at his side

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Dressing Up for the Fair

The whole school is buzzing with excitement over the Pan-American Fair on April 14. The girls in Mrs. Jordan's room are making costumes. Each girl has chosen one from a Pan-American country. These costumes are very gay and will give our Fair a very colorful appearance. Mrs. Gale Neel, our homemaking teacher will help us with our blouses and Mrs. Jordan with our skirts.

This is only one of the many things the school is doing for the Fair.

—Sheila O'Brien, grade 7

History in a Mural

The history of Mexico has been put in a mural by Mrs. Silvia Jordan's seventh grade. It is made so that it will look like a mural on a wall behind pillars.

The first part of it shows the bounding of Tenochtitlan (Mexico City). It is being made by Louise Harber. The next shows the landing of Cortez, and it is being made by Doanda Wheeler. The third part made by Roy Westburg shows the death of Montezuma and the fall of the empire.

The fourth is a picture of the Spanish victory by Tom McCrea. The fifth part is composed of the ancient and the new Mexico, and it is being made by Cynthia Carr and Margaret Stark.

—Garry Shaw, grade 7

Pan-American Day Activities

Mrs. Jordan's seventh grade at Sunset is having a very busy time getting ready for "Pan-American Day" on Friday April 14. Garden stakes are one of the few things the class is making. These have long stakes and a silhouette figure of a bird. Most of the birds are natives of South America. They are cut out of wood and placed upon a stake, and painted. They can be used as decorations in your garden. Every Mexican market has its bird booth, and this market is no exception, even if they are wooden birds.

—Au-Deane Shepherd, grade 7

Ferdinand the Bull

Doanda and Jackie Wheeler of Mrs. Jordan's seventh grade and Mrs. Duygou's fifth grade are going to give a puppet show of Ferdinand the Bull on Pan-American Day, Friday, April 14. The puppets for this are being made now. The boys from Mrs. Jordan's room will cut out Ferdinand, and Jackie and Joanda are making puppets for it. The men puppets are going to be made out of paper mache, wood, and cloth, while Ferdinand and the other animals will be made out of wood.

—Doanda R. Wheeler, grade 7

Alice is one. Jerry is, too.

Our Social Studies Program

On Wednesday, March 15, our room presented a program to Miss Staffelbach's class. We have been studying about the southern states for a long time and we were ready to tell what we learned. Surprise

Yesterday my father came home from New Caledonia! He arrived by train in Salinas.

Before he came, Mrs. Burton came to tell my mother that she was going to Salinas to pick up my father and Colonel Burton. My mother said, "What?" and we all started jumping up and down! My sister was at the movies and when she came in we didn't tell her. We wanted to keep it a surprise.

When father finally arrived home, I told my aunt to hide and surprise him because he did not know she would be there. When he got in, he started to tell what he had done while he was gone. Then my aunt came out and said, "Well, I'm not going to miss any more of the story." My father was very happy to see her.

We certainly are all glad that he is home!—Robert Drew, grade 5

Seaweed

I was at the beach with some friends when I was about six years old. We were playing in the surf with some seawood. Some of it got caught around my leg. I fell down and was floating around when I got pulled in. Boy, was I glad to be back on the beach!

Memorial Planned For Ruth Mayer Killed Overseas

Plans are now under way in Palo Alto for a memorial, probably in the form of a recreation room for 'teen age boys and girls, to honor Virginia Ruth Mayer, Red Cross worker who was killed recently while on service in Italy.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mayer of Palo Alto, and a graduate of Stanford University. Miss Mayer had made many friends in Carmel during the years she spent her summers here. Prior to enlisting for overseas duty with the Red Cross, she was engaged in social service work.

No further details of how Miss Mayer met her death are available at this time.

Halldis Stabell

By CELIA B. SEYMOUR

On the morning of March 7, Halldis Stabell, (Mrs. David Nelson Smiley) who has many friends in Carmel, died in Oakland. Hers was a valiant spirit, always seeking life, beauty and adventure.

After years spent in lecturing and teaching in Berlin, Budapest, Rome and Paris, as well as in her own institutes in Oslo and Stockholm, Halldis Stabell came to California in 1924 to give to America the fruits of her long study, a system of training to achieve "The Renaissance of the Body," a body expressing grace and strength, combined with mental and spiritual beauty.

She chose Carmel as her home, its sea, beaches and trees reminding her of her home above the fjords of Troudhjeim, Norway. She became an American citizen, but retained the deep love for her native land. She brought to us not only the strength of Norway, but its art, music and intense love of nature.

Halldis Stabell came of a distinguished family of military and artistic culture, and seemed to embody in herself the strength and courage of the Viking Spirit.

In addition to previous publications in Europe and America, a new work was in the process of being written which she felt expressed her teaching in its most advanced form.

Surviving her are her husband, David Nelson Smiley of Carmel, four brothers, and two sisters, all of Norway.

Zenas L. Potter Back With OPA

Zenas L. Potter, who went to Washington just before Pearl Harbor to become a member of Leon Henderson's Industry Council in the Office of Price Administration and later spent a year in charge of Consumer Rubber Progress for the Office of the Rubber Director under William Jeffers, has returned to the Office of Price Administration as Director of the Office of Congressional Relations under Chester Bowles. In this capacity he is responsible for liaison between OPA and Congress.

Potter is a long-standing acquaintance of Chester Bowles, for before coming to Carmel he was vice-president of the Benton and Bowles Advertising Agency of New York.

"I am very glad to be back with the Office of Price Administration," Potter writes Carmel friends, "for I think the Office of Price Administration has done a great job. In all previous wars we let inflationary pressures have their way and paid a great penalty. Prices soared, war costs and debt increased enormously and there were difficult post-war readjustments. This time for the first time Congress and the President decided that we should not suffer from the devastation of war-time inflation without a real attempt to prevent it.

"After 52 months of the last war living costs had risen 64.6 per cent; in the present war after a like period living costs have risen only 25.9 per cent; even though the inflationary pressures are far more powerful than they were then But most extraordinary is the fact that for the last 12 months, with pressures piling higher month by month, the living cost index has been held level. This is, I think, the most remarkable economic accomplishment in the history of the nation.

"Most effective of all has been control of the prices of basic materials entering largely into the cost of the war: such things as steel, pig iron, tin, copper, coal, lumber, cement, etc. In the last war these prices rose so much that a war that had a necessary cost of $17,000,000,000, actually cost $32,000,000,000. This time these prices have been so well controlled that after 51 months the war has cost $136,000,000,000. Had prices advanced as they did in the last war it would have cost $201,000,000,000. The difference is $65,000,000,000!

"These results, moreover, have been achieved without hampering war-time production. In the last war farm production increased only 5 per cent. In this war it has increased 21 per cent. In the last war industrial goods prices increased 74 per cent; production only 25 per cent. In this war prices have increased 20 per cent; production has increased 131 per cent!

"These results have also been achieved without harm to any group. Corporation profits, weekly earnings of industrial workers and total farm income in 1943 topped all previous records."

It is Potter's job to present such facts to Congress and try to improve on OPA-Congressional relations. The outcome of the coming extension of the Price Control Act and of OPA's appropriation; both to be decided before June 30, will indicate the success which attends his efforts.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter have been living at the Wardman Park Hotel ever since they moved to Washington, where Mrs. Potter (Miriam Clark Potter) is carrying on her career as a writer for children.

Like a friend from Home..your
RED CROSS is at his side!

YOUR American Red Cross hut may be a grass shack "down under" —a dugout in desert sand or a tin roof sod house in the Arctic. But inside it's Home — comforting and warm—right at his side on 53 foreign fields of this war.

Your dollars working through the Red Cross War Fund become a voice from home to cheer him when homesick, to ease his worries, to give him comfort at any time any place, even if he were taken prisoner. If he were wounded to give him blood and surgical dressings to bind his wounds.

The Red Cross War Fund quota in '44 is unprecedented in size to meet unprecedented needs. Be generous in your giving in this year of war.

Double Celebration at Highlands

The Jack Eaton home at Carmel Highlands was the scene of a gala celebration on Saturday evening when a group of friends was invited to a dinner in honor of Mr. Eaton's birthday. The turkey dinner, buffet style, was topped by a beautifully decorated birthday cake, and served amid St. Patrick's Day colors, after which the gifts were brought in to be opened. Those present besides the hostess and the honoree were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Victorine, their daughter Alice and son Walter, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Tibbetts and daughters, Jackie and Barbara, all of the Highlands; Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Howell of Monterey, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Passadori and their daughter Helen, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Henry and son Larry, of Carmel. The party then adjourned to the Highlands Fire Hall which was decorated in red, white and blue streamers and here celebrated the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Victorine. Hostesses for this occasion were Miss Helen Passadori and Miss Alice Victorine. At eleven o'clock, following an evening of dancing and community singing, the guests of honor were presented with scores of gifts, after which Mr. Frank Howell officiated at a mock wedding ceremony with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Tibbetts as best man and matron of honor and Jackie Tibbetts as flower girl. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were then served. Present in addition to the dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crouch, Mr. and Mrs. Silvear and their son, Tom, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Schielke, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Silvear, Mrs. Alice Dodge, Miss Jean Silvear, Miss Pat Foster, George Hallock, L. E. Gesy, Guy Satterfield, Pvt. Paul Washburn and Pfc. Charles Larry.

Milancy Smith Weds

Miss Milancy Smith, daughter of Mr. Guy E. Smith of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Harold Lane, (Peggy Clampett Smith), became the bride of Lieutenant George S. Morrow, Jr., U. S. N., son of the late George S. Morrow and Mrs. Morrow, on Thursday evening, March 9, in the Chapel of Grace Cathedral, San Francisco, Canon Allen Pendergraft officiating.

Attired in a gown of ivory satin, her finger-length veil held in place by a Juliet cap of the same material and carrying a shower bouquet of white orchids and bouvardia, the bride was given in marriage by her step-father, Mr. Harold Lane. Matron of honor was Mrs. Robert Oyster, the former Miss Aroline McKeever, who wore a blue satin duplicate of the bride's gown and carried a shower bouquet in pink and blue. Best man was Lieutenant Ross W. Smith. Mr. John Ryan and Mr. Peter Monteith were ushers.

Present for the wedding was Ensign Mary Morrow of the WAVEs, sister of the groom, and a number of Carmel friends of Mrs. Lane and the new Mrs. Morrow, who formerly made their home here. Following the ceremony, Mrs. Lane was hostess at a reception held in the Fairmont Hotel.

The young couple are this week honeymooning at La Playa Hotel and will make their future home in Seattle.

Vickery-Sutton Wedding

The marriage of Miss Mary Vickery to Lieutenant Robert W. Sutton of the U. S. Army Air Force took place on Friday evening, March 10, in St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Berkeley, Bishop Noel Porter of Sacramento and Mr. Marius Lindloff officiating. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ruth Vickery, as maid of honor and by two of her Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority sisters from Stanford University, the Misses Ann Huston and Bernice Glendenning.

After a brief honeymoon, the young couple will make their home near Saratoga, since Lieutenant Sutton is stationed at Moffett Field and the new Mrs. Sutton plans to continue her studies at Stanford University.

Lt. Sutton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sutton of Winchester, Massachusetts, and a graduate of Colgate University, where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Psi fraternity.

Mrs. Sutton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert K. Vickery of Berkeley, and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bacon, both families well known on the Peninsula, where they have spent many summers. Mrs. Vickery is prominent in this Episcopal diocese and is scheduled to speak during Holy Week at All Saints' Church in Carmel. Mr. Bacon has recently assumed the management of Holman's Bootery in Monterey, and he and Mrs. Bacon now make their home on Scenic Drive in Carmel.

Radio School Men Enjoy Barn Door Canteen Program

By JIM COOKE

The Carmel USO was happy to have a number of men from the Navy's new Electrical and Radio school at the Barn Door Canteen last Saturday night.

The song slides were welcomed with enthusiasm with Gerita Hanna and Gladys Young at the pianos, setting a tempo that carried on through the whole evening. Lee Crowe opened the show, introduced "Tex" and her Western comments. Then Fred Dell'Aquila of New York City and his talking guitar took over, giving the men songs of the "South American Hacienda" type.

Irwin Weddle, with Sergeant Frank Hardeman at the piano, came on with his juggling act. Gladys Young, with Gerita Hanna at the piano, sang a number of Irish songs in honor of the approaching 17th of March, and then her "Kiss Me Again" which was new to most of the men there.

Sgt. Stuart Wiley from Boston, in tails and top hat, gave the men a number of new and clever tricks out of his magician's bag. Milton Glaser of New York City, who had his own orchestra before the war, sang three ballads. William Watts, of Los Angeles, came out with his beautiful white accordion and the men sang all of his numbers with him. Watts, before the war, was an electrical organ player, and if he can find a Hammond here will be glad to give the men a concert.

Scotty Graham, coaxed out of the audience to sing "just one number" wasn't allowed to get away until he had sung several. Jose Manero who gave the beautiful Mexican dances last week pulled a surprise on everyone, and came out in tails and sang two popular songs, following these with some excellent tap dancing. Next Thursday night he will start giving the service men and junior hostesses at the Carmel USO lessons in Mexican dancing.

In the Angels' Roost (contributing two dozen doughnuts and, as one of them said afterward, getting five-dozen doughnuts' worth of entertainment) were Mrs. T. B. Blanchard, Miss Rowena Sullivan, Mrs. George Washington (Kippy) Stuart, Mrs. H. D. Day, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Seron.

Vivid Effect of Colorful New Oil Exhibition at Carmel Art Gallery

Arthur Hill Gilbert, Ferdinand Burgdorff, the Morgans, Jules Flobert are among those who have the style and interpretive verve to do justice to the various types of loveliness of our natural setting here. Warshawsky, Martin Baer, John O'Shea, Clifton Williams and Frank Myers bring us subjects from other places. Warshawsky's Mexican boys are eloquent of his talent for portraiture and his delight in sensuous color. His Breton Fish Wife confirms this impression. He lends to the people he paints a lot of his own robust awareness, and while they must have been good subjects to begin with, he makes them vital and alive in his own peculiar way. This same principle is true of Martin Baer. He infuses the people he paints with his personality; so you see their original characteristics, of course, but you also see Martin Baer in all of them.

On the other hand, John O'Shea has the faculty of letting the personality of his subject dominate him so that his people are all different, all themselves. He does this to the extent of using a great range of styles and techniques, according to his interpretive purpose. When you pass one of his canvases, you are arrested by the aliveness of it, but you have to look to see who painted it, he can so entirely subordinate himself to the mood of what he seeks to convey to the observer. His Sei Woman is a splendid example of this. And he again takes the observer by surprise in his Seascape. The intense quiet of the flat planes of rock and water and the lowering color unite to convey an almost explosive repose, if one might be allowed to use such an expression. It could hardly be more opposite in mood and technique than his jolly Sei Woman.

Other seascapes are by Jaffrey Harris and Frank Myers, who is notable for his ability to manipulate light effects on swirling water. Many visitors to the gallery remark this and seek out his paintings to enjoy this special quality. M. Foules Hall and E. M. Heath add to the list of sea paintings with Stormy Day and Rolling In respectively. Still lifes and flower pieces are offered by Margaret Levick and Lee Randolph. The interest and near tenderness which Margaret Levick gives to every day household objects is reminiscent of Chardin. Like the great Frenchman, she instills into Paintings a mixture of solidity and sentiment that is very reasonable and at the same time very charming.

No one will pass Marjory Doolittle's Sewing Machine Girl without lingering long enough to wonder about the girls' lethargic wistfulness. It is an eminently well done expression of personal mood and constructed in terms of sound composition and pleasing color. This is usually true of her portraits.

Most of the paintings hung in this show invite detailed analysis and description. So the visitor will be rewarded over and over for his trip to the gallery.

The Martin Gambee one-man water color show in the south gallery will be marked by a reception to be given on Sunday afternoon, March 26, at the gallery. Mr. Gambee's water colors speak for themselves and the only task for the reviewer in regard to them is to advise lovers of fine water colors not to miss this show. Any collector would want to acquire at least one of them, if not several.

nouement. The secretary was instructed to draw up an agreement allowing the city use of the ravine provided that only brush, street sweepings and tree clippings were dumped there, provided that the debris dumped was properly covered over with dirt and provided that the dumping was done under the personal supervision of the superintendent of streets.

So far so good. "Superintendent of streets" would be interpreted to mean any superintendent of streets the city happened to have in its employ.

And then Hugh Comstock, president of the school board, gave voice to the astonishing proposition: "Make that read, 'William Askew, Superintendent of Streets.' Put the name in. That's important."

And immediately the agreement became more than an agreement. It became a tenure of office for Street Superintendent William Askew for so long as the agreement was in operation, for should the city see fit to fire Mr. Askew, under the present wording the agreement would become ineffective.

Not that the city is contemplating firing William Askew who is doing a very good job of keeping up the streets on very short allowance of men and material. So far as we know the city is content to keep Mr. Askew on the job for the rest of his days. Still, the city should have the privilege of arriving at this decision for itself and not be obligated by a brush dumping agreement.

But how the city wants that ravine!

The pressure is on again. We dangle in suspense. What will happen when the agreement is sent down from the school board to the mayor, when the city council has to decide between liberty and lebensraum. We haven't sought a legal opinion, so we wonder if the city can surrender its firing privilege even if it proposed to make the sacrifice.

Of course, there is still the possibility of a happy ending if the school board members wake up to the situation and lead their president back to the path of sweet reason. —Wilma Cook

The Vatican and Walt Disney Film Set for Playhouse

The Playhouse is celebrating St. Patrick's Day by starting tonight a three day run of one of its occasional two-feature programs, both films in this instance being half-length. They are "The Story of the Vatican," made by the March of Time staff, and Walt Disney's charming "Saludos Amigos." Owing to the great interest all over the Peninsula in the Vatican subject a special matinee will be given Sunday in addition to the regular Saturday matinee.

"The Story of the Vatican" was filmed about two years ago, before Rome and its historical and artistic treasures lay, as they do now, in the path of advancing armies. It required some four months of "shooting," which was accomplished with the full and active co-operation of Pope Pius XII, and the high dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church. Every corner of Vatican City, the smallest State in the world, is explored, with magnificent sequences of the Vatican itself and of the life within its walls, of St. Peter's, the Sistine Chapel, the Catacombs, and the world famous works of painting and sculpture in the vast Vatican Galleries. It is needless to add, since the newspapers and the radio programs are reminding the world daily of the perilous position of these great monuments to human culture, that the showing of this film at the Playhouse is most timely, irrespective of creed.

The companion film, "Saludos Amigos," is Walt Disney's Technicolor masterpiece of semi-fantasy, wherein we accompany the familiar Disney characters on a dizzy trip through the Latin-American countries. It has been said that this happy film has done more to make friends for us in South American than the whole "kit and caboodle" of smooth speeches lately made by visiting U. S. politicians and industrialists.

Current Pathe News completes the bill.

Charges Against Police Department to Be Aired At Public Meeting

week. McHarry was not ready to state yesterday if the evidence gathered is sufficient to satisfy the district attorney that action should be taken.

Mrs. Horne failed to appear in City Judge George P. Ross' court Monday in answer to the traffic citation, and her attorney, Eben Whittlesey attending in her behalf, reported that she was still confined to her bed on doctors orders. Whittlesey refused to waive the citation, and a formal complaint was issued yesterday charging her with failing while driving her car to make an arm signal when she made a turn.

Jelich, who has not been suspended pending the investigation of the case as is often the policy when an officer is under fire, came here from San Mateo to join the police force a little over two years ago. He is a graduate of San Jose Police School, married and has a six-month-old baby.

After Three Years Destroyers Claim League Championship

The Carmel Destroyers won the championship of Charlie Frost's basketball league when they defeated the Monterey Wildcats, 28-23 in the Big Game Sunday at Monterey. It was truly a Big Game for the group of Carmel boys, the culmination of three years of dogged trying, victory after a seemingly unending string of defeats, a fitting reward for their courageous refusal to accept discouragement, and it came at the last possible moment. This is the last year these boys, who have been together as a team with not more than one or two changes in lineup over the three year period, can play in the Kid's league. Next year they are material for the Carmel high school teams.

In their joyous celebration of their triumph, the boys have not forgotten to give full credit to Lefty Sproul, a former basketball star of a Kansas university and a Country Club resident who several weeks ago came forward and offered to be their coach, their first. Throughout their history they had to get get along as best they could without coaching.

The Destroyers won their victory before a packed house in a fast game working a tight zone defense and shooting with soul-satisfying accuracy. Lew Earl McCreery collected 6 points, Owen Greenan 7, Richard Mulholland 12, Rod Dewar 1 and Lee Winslow 2. Murrey Wight, substitute, also saw action.

The victory was celebrated at a party at the Charley Frost home to which the girls had been asked. Dancing, victory speeches, hot dogs, stuffed eggs and cokes rounded out the great day.

Red Cross

By HELEN A. FIELD

The regular monthly meeting of Mission Trails Camp and Hospital Council was held on Tuesday, March 14th in American Red Cross Headquarters at Fort Ord. Among the many reports made by members of the Council, whose activities contribute so much to the good spirits and satisfying living of servicemen in this section of California, was one which is of particular interest to Carmel people. It was a report made by Mrs. R. R. Wallace, who represents the Carmel chapter of Red Cross on the Camp and Hospital Council, to the effect that Bundles for America has generously added to the $400 given earlier in the year a second $400 so that the purchase of instruments needed for the permanent orchestra at the Replacement Depot at Fort Ord may be completed. Music means a great deal to many of our servicemen and this assurance of a permanent orchestra at Fort Ord will make possible the somewhat intangible but yet very real help for the men that only music can provide.

A request from the Area Office of the Red Cross in San Francisco has come to the Production Room of Carmel chapter for 720 filled kit bags for men going overseas in addition to the quota already mentioned in this column. Some of the work on the kit bags as well as sewing on other articles to be made in our Production Room can be done at home by those who cannot leave their home responsibilities long enough to work at Chapter Headquarters. If you can take part in this worthwhile work, please communicate with the Production Room, telephone 1285W.

KIPPY STUART TO SPEAK

Mrs. D. E. Nixon, as chairman of the Book Section of the Carmel Woman's club, announces a very interesting program for the next meeting, Monday, March 20, at 2 p.m. in the Girl Scout house, when Mrs. George W. Stuart, author of the popular Piang books, will be speaker of the day.

Food Sale Today For Notre Dame Building Fund

The St. Patrick's Day food sale conducted by the parish ladies of Mission San Carlos de Borromeo under the chairmanship of Mrs. Frank Cox, opens today in the store formerly occupied by the Village 5 & 10 on Ocean Avenue.

Proceeds from the sale will go toward the building fund for the Notre Dame school, now housed in the Villa Angelica, to be located eventually in the Mission compound.

POLICE BUSINESS FOR THE WEEK

Miss Louise Clark reported the loss of her purse to the police department Tuesday. She had left it at the table where she had dinner in a local restaurant and on returning it could not be found.

A. J. Mathews' car was struck by a car cutting in on him as he was driving up Ocean Avenue hill. The bumper was knocked off the Mathews' car and the left front fender damaged.
